

Topic areas

Master of Public Health (MPH) - 40 credit points
Graduate Certificate of Public Health (GCPH) - 12 credit points

A. Epidemiology and Biostatistics

B. Environmental Health

C. Health Services Research

D. Health Communication

E. Health Equity and Social Determinants of Health

Progress your studies

Graduate Certificate of Public Health (GCPH) - 12 credit points
Master of Public Health (MPH) - 36 credit points

Master of Public Health

(36 CREDIT POINTS)

Graduate Certificate of Public Health

(12 CREDIT POINTS)

The Master of Public Health equips students with a versatile skill set encompassing epidemiology, strategies for health promotion, leadership, and management and community-focused interventions.

Case ~~Study~~ Opportunities

Journal of Health Economics - The Journal of Health Economics is a leading international journal in the field of health economics. It publishes original research, policy analysis, and empirical studies on a wide range of health-related issues. The journal is highly regarded for its rigorous peer review process and its focus on high-quality, evidence-based research.

Case Studies - The journal features several case studies that provide detailed insights into specific health economic issues. These studies often explore the impact of policy changes, the effectiveness of health interventions, and the economic burden of disease. The case studies are presented in a clear and concise manner, making them accessible to both researchers and policymakers.

Research Opportunities - The journal provides a platform for researchers to share their findings and engage in scholarly discussion. It offers a wide range of research opportunities, from theoretical analysis to empirical research. The journal's focus on high-quality research makes it an ideal venue for publishing cutting-edge work in the field of health economics.

Postgraduate courses with qualifications

Available at JCU, you can study a range of postgraduate courses with qualifications. For more information, visit Ola A.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

For more information on entry requirements, visit Ola A.

FURTHER INFORMATION

1800 246 446
Ela C

